Once in a Blue Moon

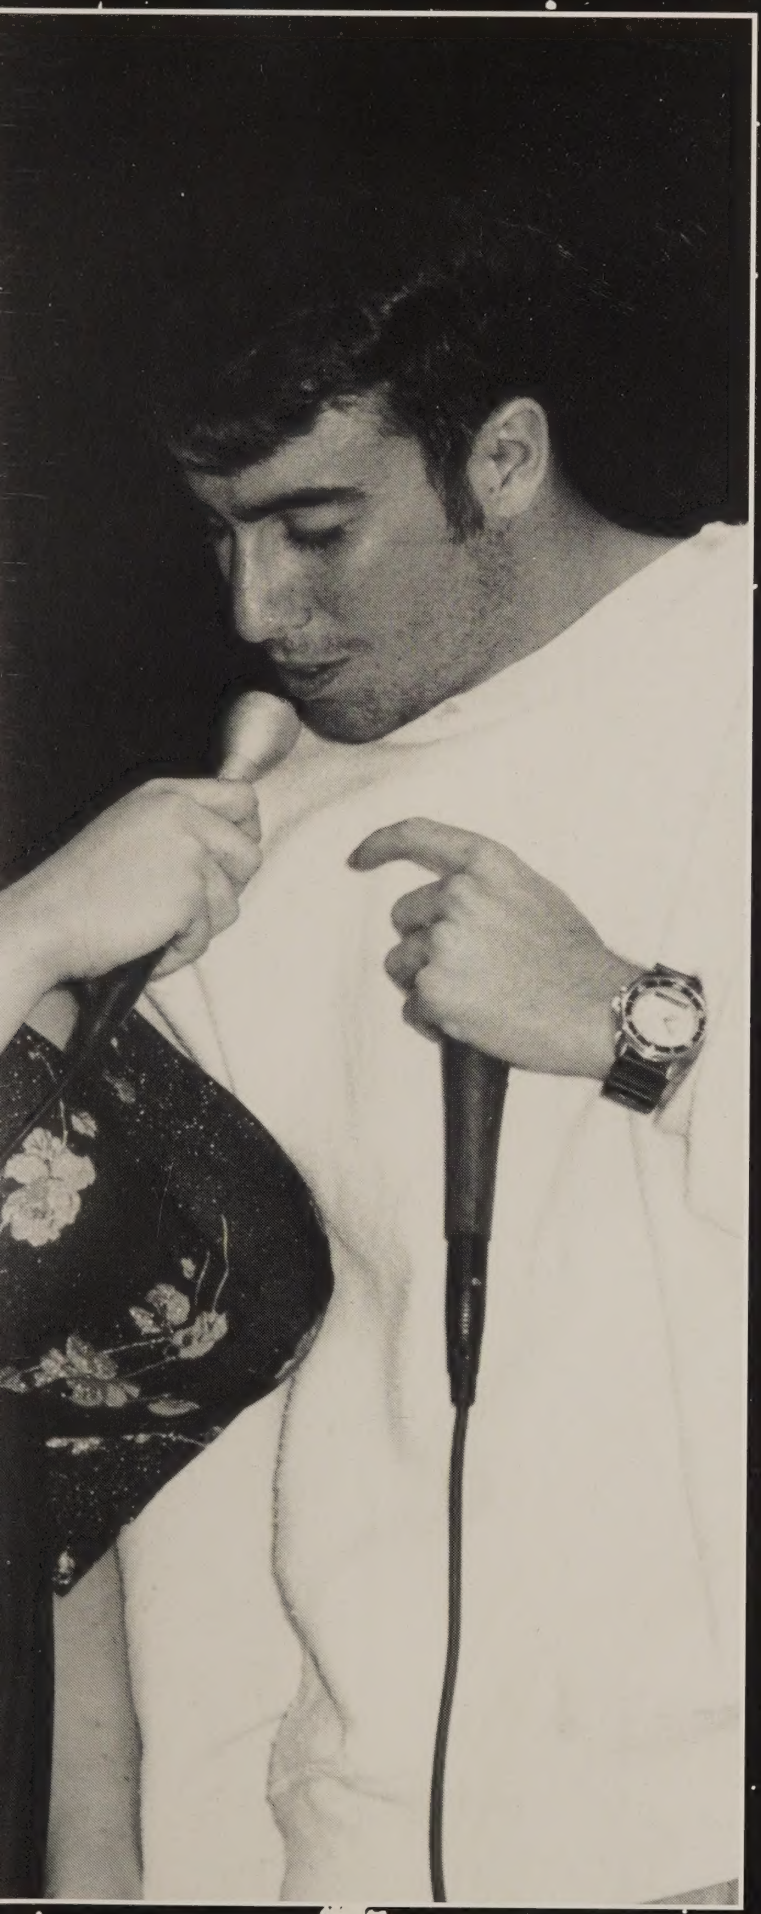
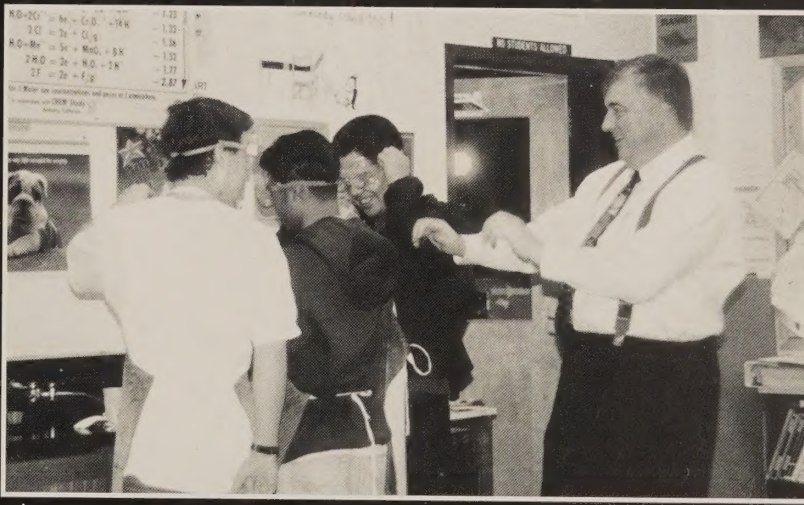
It seems that every year, Mt. Vernon has changed, and is never the same twice. Whether it's changes with the buildings or additions to the course offerings, nothing remains the same for very long. This year is extremely special because our school will be incorporating the International Baccalaureate program into the curriculum. Added on to the now full-time block scheduling, our school has now become drastically different from the place it once was.

Seniors Sean Petit, Dawn Braxton, and Junior Sabrina Rosada-Rodriguez join together and beat upon their massive drums.



Taking a break from the rigorous training of winter track, freshman Chris Wolfe and senior Brett Kenney find time to kick-back and relax.

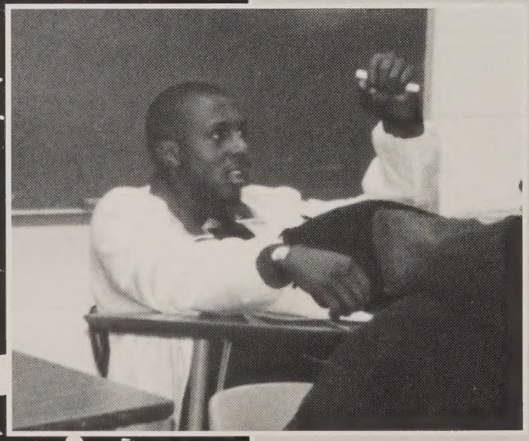


Showing off their talent at last year's Mr. Mount Vernon show, graduates Alan Johnson and Steve Cataldo serenade one another. The two went on to win first place for their memorable performance.

During biology, Mr. Givens busts out with a phat, mack-daddy pimp-in' dance move.

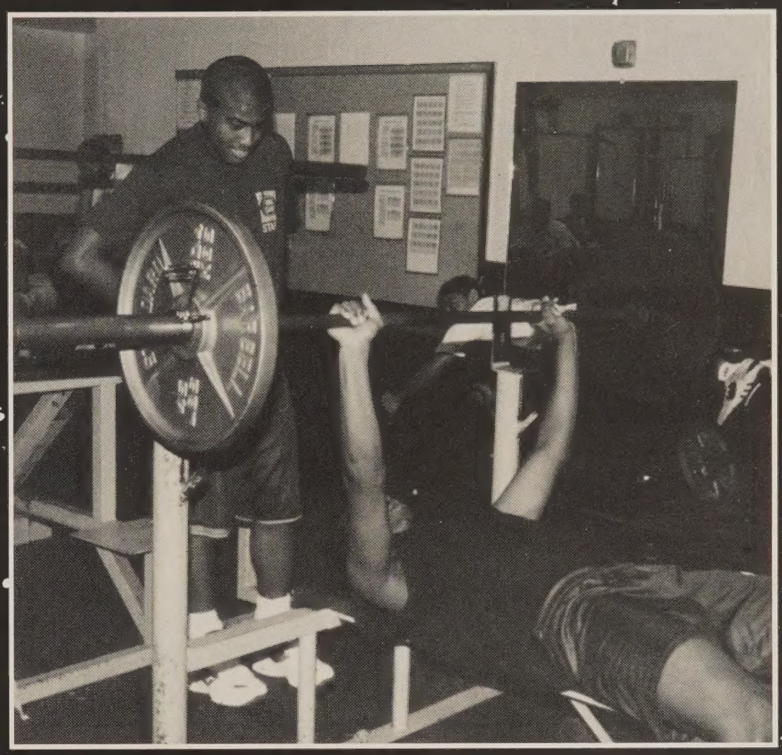
Outside of the Void

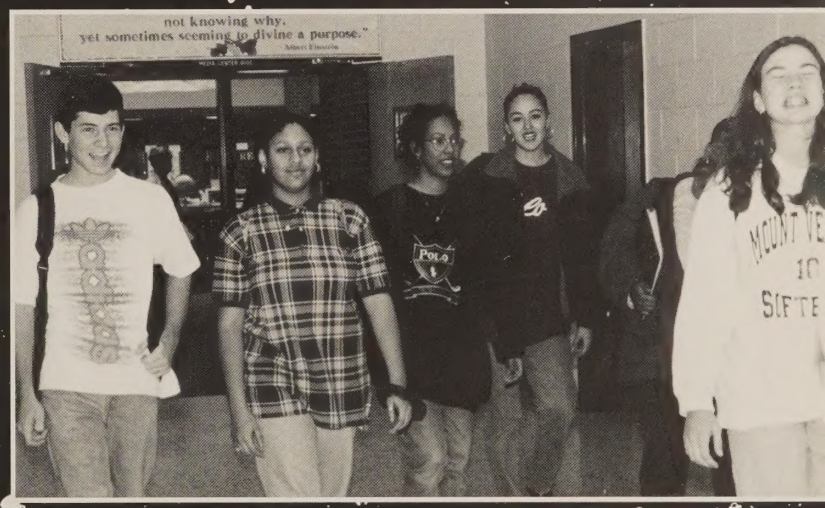
Despite the extra hours of hard labor brought on by the added work-load from IB courses, many students managed to maintain healthy social lives after school hours. With the advent of such student organized events such as Fight Night, large groups of students became unified, no longer paying attention to such limiting factors as grade, age, and weight class. Overall, life outside of school was drastically different from the illusion presented in the halls.



Junior Leonard Singletary voices his opinion to the rest of the class.

Senior Ed Robinson assists a friend as he does his bench presses.





Looking suave at the '94 prom, Junior Sal Harvey leans back to relax.

Juniors Frankie Lamberth, Tanya Williams, Glenny T. Craig, Wendy Amaya, and Katie Kelly cruise the hallways.

Through masses of white and black balloons, one could hardly find an unfamiliar face from the hundreds of Mount Vernon students attending Prom 94, held at the Springfield Hilton. Despite the fact that Prom fell on Friday, May 13th, students managed to escape total disaster and had an enjoyable evening. Rarely do teenagers get the chance to dress in formal attire and parade around in sports cars and limousines. "The best part of the evening was getting to ride in the limo. Our chauffeur was really cool and we had a great time." commented junior, Chancey Deloera.

The decorations were spectacular thanks to the prom committee. Balloons and cityscapes coincided with the theme for prom, "In the Still of the Night," and provided the perfect atmosphere for a romantic evening. "I enjoyed seeing everyone having a good time, after all the hard work and dedication put in by the junior prom committee and their sponsor." said senior, Brad Clark. Between talking with friends and dancing with their dates, prom-goers barely had time to visit the buffet or get pictures taken. Many took time to admire the outfits of friends and classmates, while others chose to sit and watch the dance floor. After a stirring rendition of "In the Still of the Night," by Mount Vernon's very own Four Whites and an Arab, students gathered around their tables to await the crowning of the king and queen. Richard Johnson and Brandi Carter, who were also Homecoming king and queen, captured the title once again for Prom 94. As the evening slipped into the early hours of the morning, students left prom for their various destinations. For sure, Prom 94 will be an evening few shall forget.

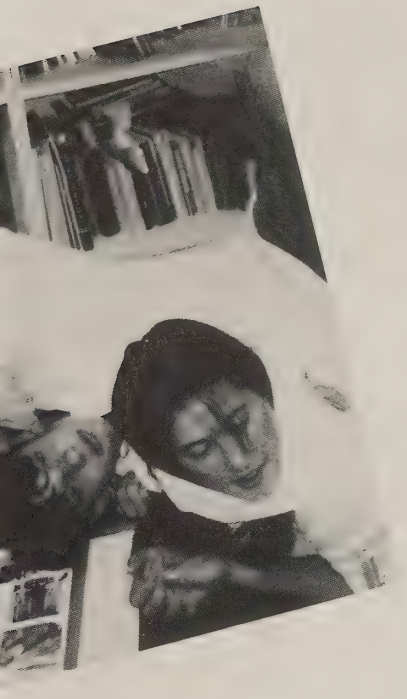
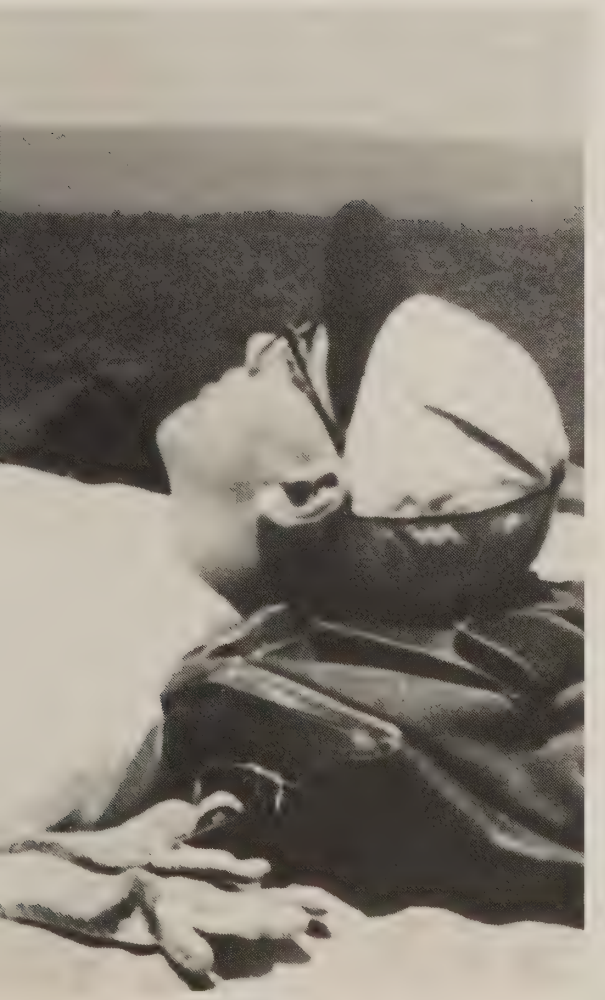
After a slight preparation senior Z.K. is on her way to a pleasurable summer night at Renees party!

Summer was a great inspiration for sophomore Alix Climer as she sits enjoying the finer parts of art.





This Summer one of Mount Vernon's finest Seniors Chang Yi receives his certificate of citizenship.

Chillin' on the rocks is senior David Ratliff enjoying his summer.

Just grin and bear it. Despite the many stresses that came with being a senior, Jenny Morgan always seemed to have a smile on her face.

Seniors Bennett Baber and Sarah Boykin discuss their assignments. Having friends in their classes helped seniors to make it through the school year.

Seniors Sarah Petteway and Cathy Marlatt found time to relax and catch up on lost time, while traveling with the band to Chapel Hill, N.C.

Deep in thought, seniors Mark Bartlett and Noa Hammer concentrate on their teacher's instructions. With so many things to worry about, seniors sometimes found it hard to stay focused.

Preparing for Take-Off

Between college applications and physics tests, seniors barely had time to sleep, much less find time to relax. But somehow they did manage to squeeze in a little time for themselves, whether that meant hanging out in Old Towne, or relaxing in the comfort of their own homes. Free time was greatly cherished, since it came very rarely. Many seniors spent their time reminiscing of carefree days as freshmen and sophomores.

Being a senior did have its advantages, such as having their own lunch line, and receiving, "senior surprises." Senior Barbara Claterbos, described her experience as, "It's awesome, but there are so many things you have to worry about, like college and keeping your grades up." The mere thought of finishing their last year in high school was motivation enough for some. Though before leaving high school, seniors faced tons of paperwork, and the agony of waiting for acceptance letters. Senior Monica Zakar, summed up the feelings of many seniors when she said, "You can't bring back the past, so I'm trying to make the best of every moment."

BLAST-OFF FOR FUN

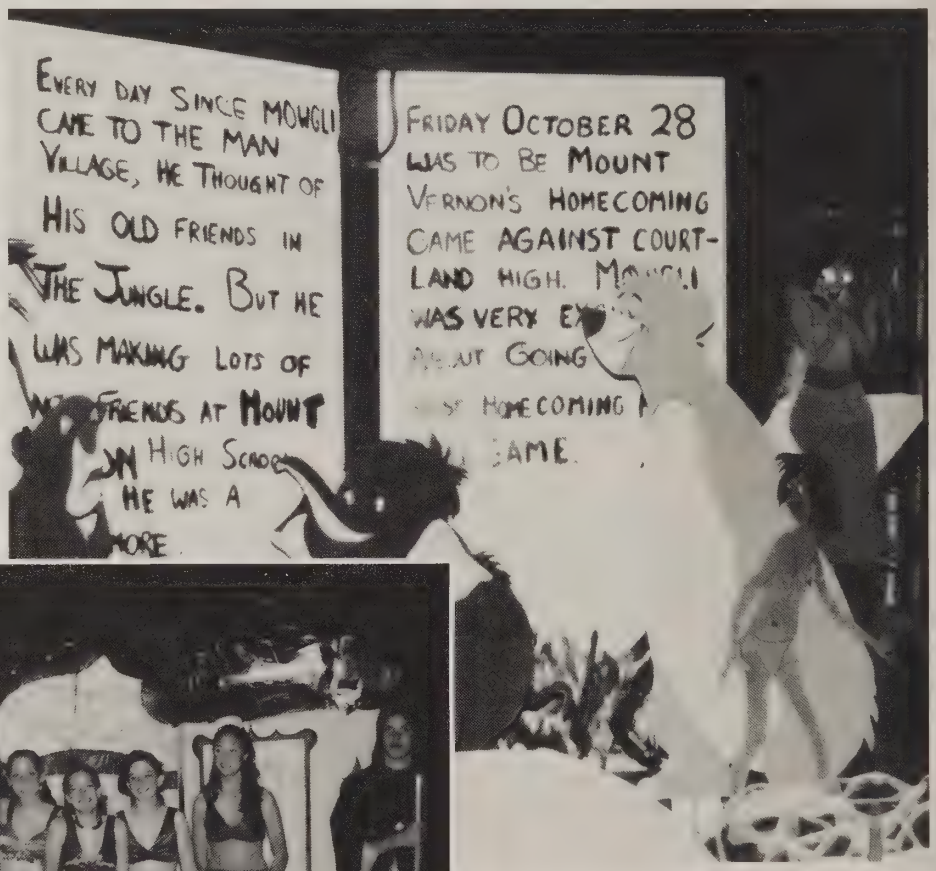
One of the many jovial times of the school year is Spirit Week. The theme for Spirit Week this year was The Wonderful World of Disney. Each class had to choreograph a skit, decorate their subschool, and construct a float that went along with their Disney theme. The senior class theme was The Little Mermaid. The rest of the classes had themes of Aladdin, The Jungle Book, and Beauty and the Beast.

Besides the skit, subschool decoration, and the float, the classes competed against each other during the week. On Monday the students had to dress in sleepwear. On Tuesday each class had to wear a specific color. On Wednesday the theme was "Return to the 60's." Thursday was Dress to Impress Day. And on Friday all of the students wore the school colors.

The week's festivities had the students enjoy themselves. "Spirit Week tends to bring out the wild side of the students," said senior Geoff Chatham. Spirit Week lets the students have fun. Sometimes the students really get into Spirit Week. But all of the students have fun. Senior Nickia Palmer said, "Spirit Week lets the students express themselves."

And the end of the week each class won one event, with the seniors winning the overall Spirit Week competition. The juniors finished second and with the sophomores and freshmen coming in third and fourth, respectively.

In their first attempt, the freshmen class decorated their subschool in the theme of Beauty and the Beast. The freshmen came in third place in the subschool decoration.



Chillin' out one night juniors Tobi Denick, Cathy Keifer, Jen Lorentzen, Mary Dorn, Katie Johnson and David Ferguson helped their class win the float competition.

Coming out of the jungle, the characters of the Jungle Book helped the sophomore class during the float competion during Spirit Week.

Dining on the guppies of Mount Vernonthe senior float helped the senior class win the overall Spirit Week competion.

Going hip, seniors Sedia Jaleba, Jaime Palma andZainab Kamara as they "Returned to the 60's" during Spirit Week.

Getting into his part, senior Latee Waters portrays Sebastian from The Littlte Mermaid. He helped pump up the senior class during Spirit Week competitions.

ECLIPSING THE OTHERS

With excitement in the air, the Homecoming Court made their procession between the marching band. Starting with the freshmen court and ending with the announcement of the Homecoming King and Queen, the crowd gathered in the stands and waited in anticipation.

When the announcers, Mr. Brian Taylor and Sean Brayboy announced Jennifer Malkin and Kevin Thomas as the Homecoming Queen and King, the crowd erupted with a thunderous applause. The emotions of the winners ranged from surprise to happiness. "I was shocked when they announced my name," said Homecoming King Kevin Thomas. "I feel honored that the senior class chose me as this year's King."

Jennifer Malkin was even more surprised when she was announced Homecoming Queen. " I never expected that my name would be announced as the winner. This is one of the most happiest times of my life." And to cap off the evening's festivities the Majors won the Homecoming game.

The next evening the Homecoming Dance was held at Mount Vernon High School. This year student turnout was high. So high that "the Homecoming Dance of 1994 was one of the most successful dances ever held," said SGA President Tammy Duricka.

Everyone enjoyed the atmosphere of the dance. The students were all in a festive mood. Everyone was on the dance floor having a good time. "We really enjoyed the dance this year," said junior Jeremy McLaughlin. "The Homecoming Dance is one of the major highlights of the year. Everyone should enjoy themselves at the dance."

This school year, the success of the Homecoming activities skyrocketed. All of the students enjoyed all of the festivities. In the end Homecoming was a successful time this year. All will take wonderful memories from the dance and some will even remember this for a lifetime.

Homecoming King Kevin Thomas and Queen Jennifer Malkin come together to reign over all at the Homecoming Dance.

Mount Vernon students Afua Boakye, Joel Clark, Tina Bowman, Ebony Lewis, Shaquita Williams, and Shamila Williams, along with their friends, step back for a moment to relax at the dance.

Coming to one of his first school functions, freshman Mark Schimdtke, as well as all of the students who came, enjoyed one of the most successful Homecoming Dances ever.

Senior Tim Andrews and junior Christy Carlson enjoy one of the final slow dances of the evening as the Homecoming festivities came to an end.

Sophomores Melissa Barlow, Jennifer Purdy, and Heather Kempthorne dance up a storm at the dance. The threesome had fun hanging out together that night.

The Junior Court, consisting of Sean Floyd, Christy Carlson, Kelly Hall, LaShonda Maxfield, Oliver Sharpe, Seema Sethi, Raphael Pope, and Abby Wooldergrabiel, came to the Homecoming Dance to have good time with their classmates.

Senior David Gilchrist and Nickia Palmer are friendly rivals as the prepare for the Mr. Mount Vernon Contest. Thought they knew only one would win, they still remained good friends

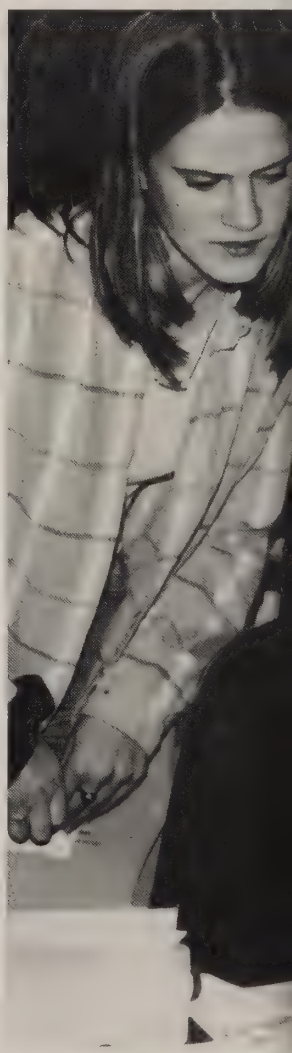
Making friends was easy for Lilya Ostrovska, a foreign exchange student from the Ukraine. Junior Wendy Medina was one of the many friends Lilya made during the year.

FRIENDS FOREVER

When the going got tough, students needed someone to reach out and talk to. Someone you could count on to help you out and was there when you were in a crunch. Whether it meant being there to talk to, or just hanging out, everyone depended on their friends. Friends provided each other with an escape from the everyday pressures that school often brought. Being able to talk with friends at lunch or in between classes kept students going throughout the day. A friend meant someone to help you on your Science Project, or bring your homework to you when you stayed home sick. A friend is someone you could call to find out what you missed at school and someone to keep you up to date on the latest and juiciest news.

Anywhere you look, you are sure to find friends hanging out together. Often times you see friends huddled together in the same class talking. If they didn't have the same classes with their friends, students could be seen in the halls or lockerbanks talking about their day. But friendships don't stop at 2:10. Students enjoy spending their free time with each other after school at their favorite hang-outs. Friends all get together on the weekends to do whatever they felt like doing. Their activities ranged from driving to Old Town, getting some food at McDonald's or Taco Bell, while other good places to relax were at Wendy's or Subway. Whatever the activity, friends appreciated having each other to depend on and spend time together.

Sophomores Craig Kennedy and Mary Ady roam the halls together walking to class. They catch up on the latest news of the class.



Relaxing in the classroom, seniors Diane Decarlo and Luvie Cole spend their time in class talking about the latest gossip. Talking to each other made the time in class go faster.

Senior Chang Yi gets a friendly hand from his family as he receives his citizenship. Chang received a lot of support from both family and friends.

Staying afterschool to get help, juniors Tobi Denick and Amy Park work together to pass Mrs. Amico's class. Helping one another made them better friends.

Sophomores John Davis and Jeffrey Ratliff take a break and hang out in the lockerbank. Skipping together to relax is a fun way for friends to spend some time together.

Junior, Jamal Parrish, contemplates his next bold move. Different hairstyles and unique dressing were normal for Jamal. He kept us guessing as to what he would do next.

Fashion students strut their stuff at this year's fashion show. Students could find out "what's hot and what's not," by attending the annual fashion show held by the fashion merchandising students.

Walking down the halls of Mount Vernon, one was sure to see a wide variety of styles and fashions. Flannels and thermals were a standard that could be found in just about everyone's closet. Bell-bottoms and stacks made their comeback once again this year, while knee socks and pleated skirts made their way into the classroom to complete the classic schoolgirl look. Tommy Hilfiger and Polo were the names of choice when it came men's wear. As always, guys and girls alike could be found wearing their leather jackets around school.

Many students chose not to follow the popular fashion trends. Their outfits were unique and often made a statement about themselves as individuals. Students could express themselves through the way they dressed. They stood out in a crowd, and were known for their unique dressing. To some, these fashion statements were seen as a way to receive attention. Others saw people for who they were, and not for what they wore.

Lost In Time

As students began to realize their days as carefree children were coming to an end, they tried to hold on to a few of those waning pleasures. Many carried lunch boxes with them to the cafeteria, while others were found wearing pigtails and baby barrettes in their hair. Some girls wore knee socks and mary janes to school, while the guys showed their youthfulness not so much in what they wore, but the way they acted.

Reminiscing about their days as little boys and girls, students began to wish they could leave their present responsibilities behind, and return to their youth. Not only did this affect the way they dressed but also the way they behaved. Realizing that the real world is just around the corner, students put things in perspective and prioritized their lives. Students learned that it is important to get good grades and work hard, but it is also important to have fun. Being able to take things in stride, and laugh at things, helped students maintain their sanity during those days when everything seemed to be going wrong.

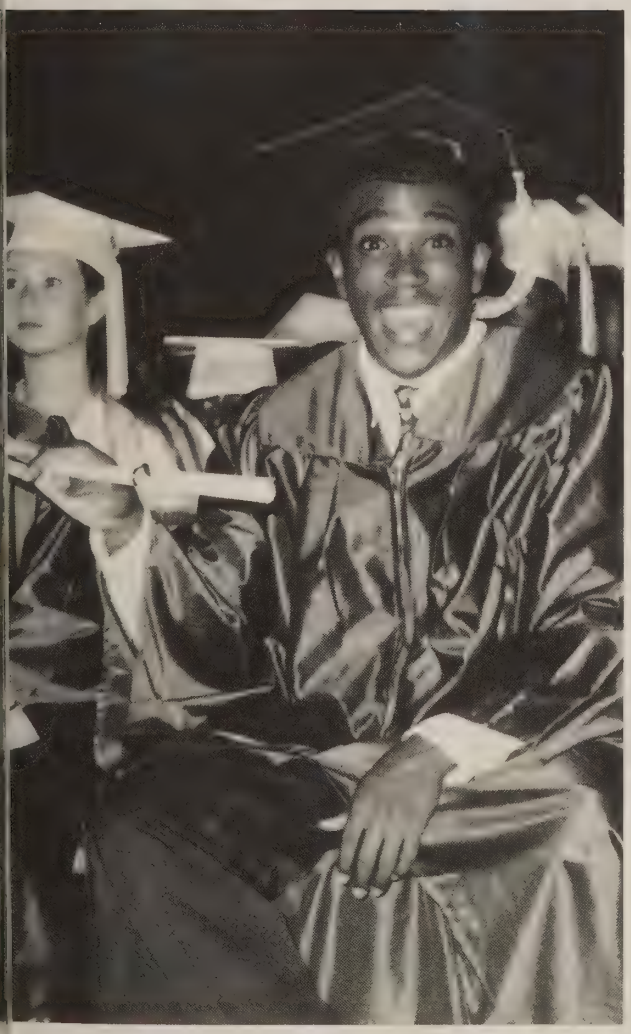
THE NEXT GENERATION

As the graduates fixed their cap and gowns seconds before entering the graduation ceremonies, there was a murmur of excitement. The whir of video cameras and the rattling of programs filled the Michael M. Skinner fieldhouse as parents, students, and teachers found their seats to the conclusion of another school year.

As the band played Pomp and Circumstances, the Class of 1994 proceeded down the aisle and found their seats. As speaker after speaker and valedictorian after valedictorian finished their speeches, the most important part of the ceremony finally came. As each student was called, they walked onto the stage to receive their diplomas. The crowd erupted with applause after each student was announced. Flashes from cameras went off simultaneously in each section of the stands as families took pictures of their loved ones.

After four long years of homework and deadlines, the Class of 1994 has finally reached the end of their high school career. They are now free from the confines of the school to explore the unknown reality called life. They now must take their place as the next generation of doctors, lawyers, and teacher. Good luck to all. Live long and prosper.



Leaving that night, Owen Riley leaves the ceremony never having to come back to school as a student ever again. He now looks to the future to bring whatever comes to him.

In her final function at school, Stachea Bridges stands proud as she leaves the graduation ceremonies. She knows that she had a full and funlife here at Mt. Vernon.

Dawn of a New Age

Once again the student body proved that it could respond to any challenge. With the introduction of the International Baccalaureate (IB) program to MV, many students took to the challenge of more difficult assignments and an increased workload.

With the new program came a wave of new teachers, each bringing with them their own unique style to be fused with the previous techniques already in place. With newly broadened horizons, students were able to usher in a knew era for Mount Vernon.

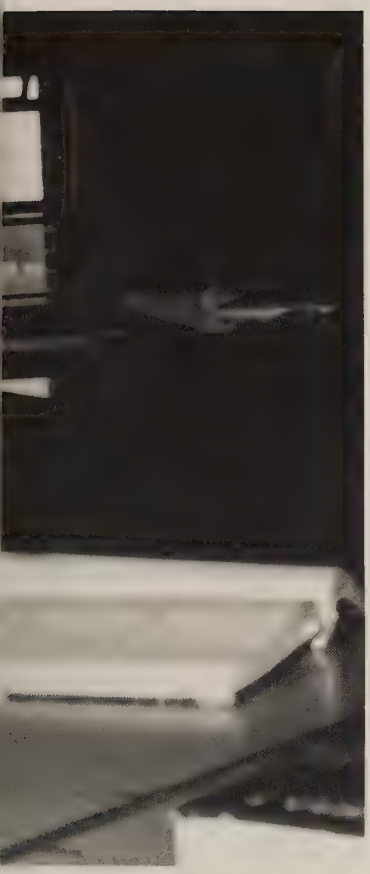
Block Scheduling & IB

Big changes for Mount Vernon High School



Kristen Markman

This year Mount Vernon underwent two major changes, both of which affect everyone. The first change was the switch to block scheduling. This made a dramatic difference in everyone's schoolday. Now there are four classes a day instead of seven, we see most of our teachers only every other schoolday, and we have long expanses of time for each class. Responses to block scheduling have been mixed, they range from extreme dissatisfaction to amazement that we ever could have gone without it. Block scheduling allows for much more in depth study in most class situations. With one hundred minutes per class, it is now possible to do many activities that were previously impossible. The blocks benefit all types of classes — academic, vocational, fine arts, and other electives.

The other major change was the installation of the International Baccalaureate program. Students who choose to pursue the IB diploma may be eligible for enrollment in foreign universities as well as scholarships to American schools. Any student who is interested may take IB courses whether pursuing the diploma or not. The school as a whole benefits from the program by learning new methods of teaching, placing new importance on interdisciplinary learning, and receiving more technologically advanced equipment.

Math was a particularly hard class to take in blocks, this student shows his frustration.

Megan Graeber

Physical Education & Health

It Does a Body Good

Most juniors were relieved this year that they were no longer required to take P.E. Although they complained, freshmen and sophomores didn't find it so horrible, though. They were able to participate in track and field events such as the mile run and the discus throw, volleyball, gymnastics, ping-pong badminton, and ultimate frisbee. But we all know the favorite part of every student's year was the unit on dance. Here boys and girls alike learned to glide across the floor in a series of elegant and graceful motions.

During either the second or third quarter, freshmen had to take health instead of P.E. Some enjoyed taking this class, others really preferred the physical activity. Like the freshmen, sophomore classes also took one quarter out of P.E. But for them it was drivers education, a class most are more than happy to take.

ENGLISH

What is Written in the Stars

One would expect the typical English class to be a real snorefest, but here they are anything but boring. Students are given challenges and expected to meet tough deadlines.

Take Mr. Ingalls' 12th grade IB English for example. His students were given rigorous reading assignments throughout the year and expected to finish reading them within two weeks of starting.

In January, an extremely large paper was to be completed by every student. The paper was then sent on to Albuquerque, New Mexico where it was given a score based on a scale of 1 to 5. Mount Vernon students scored very well on these papers.

Other English classes had projects that tested students abilities. Mr. Locher's 11th grade IB class had plans for an extravagant video on South Africa. Students felt the project was fun and educational.

The overall attitude toward the change in English classes this year was good. Students remarked that the classes were challenging, yet helped them in their quest for knowledge.

MATH

$x(2 - y) / [x + (4y + 8z)] = ???$

Math is not generally considered a favorite among Mount Vernon students, but as Jeremy Frick, a junior, says, "You should get as much math as possible, because you always need to count." Jeremy is currently taking IB Precalculus, and, next year he will choose either AB or BC Calculus. Both calculus classes are advanced placement classes, the BC course covers more information in the same amount of time which makes it the more challenging of the two courses. Students who plan on a future in engineering, math, or science are the most apt to take as advanced a math class as calculus while still in high school, but many other students were enrolled in both AB and BC this year as well.

Even for students not interested in the higher math classes at Mount Vernon, at least some math is required for graduation. Most students take math at least through Algebra II. After that they can choose to quit or to take trigonometry or precalculus followed by Calculus. In the end, math benefits us all. Brett Kenney, a senior, says "I think math is very important because not a day goes by that I wonder what the transverse tangent of the obtuse angle of theta is!"

English as a Second Language

Learning English is Difficult for Some

Mount Vernon is proud of its ethnic diversity. ESL is a program that makes his diversity possible. All of the Mount Vernon students who come to the school without the necessary English to compete with other, English-speaking students, are enrolled in ESL, English as a Second Language. These classes teach students English while teaching other core high school classes such as world studies or history. This way students do not fall behind in their studies.

Having to go to school without understanding very much English can be a very overwhelming experience. ESL classes are a chance for students who don't speak English to be in a less stressful environment with other students who are learning English and teachers who are patient and understanding. Most ESL students love their classes and their teachers.

ESL students take a normal class load in addition to ESL. The ESL helps them learn English and gain confidence to do well in their other classes and participate in sports and extracurricular activities.

ESL teachers relay on pictures to assist in teaching. Even students who do not understand the words will recognize pictures.

SCIENCE
. . . Makes the World Go Round

Mount Vernon students were required to take at least three years of science. Students were offered a wide variety of choices ranging from Earth Science to Physics to Astronomy. For the more advanced student, Advanced Placement courses were offered in Biology and Chemistry. Students who took these classes had the chance of receiving college credit for them. Science classes prepared students for a future in a related field or the chance of escape into the mind-boggling world of science.

The Science Department welcomed the addition of IB Physics teacher Ms. Katy Snider. Immediately, she sponsored the physics club and encouraged her students to investigate and experience the natural wonders of physics. The Science Department also sponsored the annual Science Fair, won by senior Nancy Stevens.

Students also had the chance to join the Unbeaten Path, Chem Club, or the Bio Club.

Social Studies
We all need it to graduate

It's true, every Mount Vernon student must pass World Studies, History, and Government in order to graduate. In addition to these basic classes, students can opt to take Modern European History, History of the Americas, Asian history, African history, sociology, and psychology. Although they can be a lot of work at times, they can also be some of the more interesting classes students take.

Freshman can often be heard complaining about the amount of work they have to do this year in Mrs. Wansong's World Studies class. Mrs. Wansong is the newest social studies teacher and although students admit that they learn a lot in her class, they wish they weren't getting so much work.

Juniors take American history, unless they take the IB equivalent of History of the Americas which focuses on South America as well as North America. AP History students participate in the annual History Day competition. School winners take their projects to the regional fair.

Seniors have traditionally taken government. This year, juniors who are IB candidates and potential IB sophomores are taking it, too. The sophomores and some of the juniors are taking IB government which focuses on the structure of government in general in addition to American government instead of regular or AP government which focuses just on American government. The seniors had to do their SIV projects as a part of the course. SIV projects are designed to get students involved in their community through required volunteer service. Also, all government students participated in the annual Capitol Hill field trip in March.

FINE ARTS
Beast

One place you will find talent is in the Fine Arts classes. These include courses such as art, drama, band, chorus, photography and music. Whether it be through their artwork or musical performance, Mount Vernon students are always looking for a way to take out their inner turmoil on the rest of us. Some sign up for these classes every year in order to perfect their skills.

The introduction of block scheduling has benefitted the system. "Art is a lot better with block scheduling, because it isn't the type of class where you can just stop after 50 minutes," commented Becci Shaw. Endurance was always the key, for chorus to instrumental guitar to senior art. 100 minutes of art could be taxing, but the benefits greatly outweighed the curriculum.

Whatever the case, students appreciated having a chance to do something they enjoyed during school. The fine arts program, for the most part, taught students the importance of balancing academics with education.

Vocational Hands on

Technical drawing, auto mechanics, and technical education are all classes in the vocational department of Mount Vernon High School. At Mount Vernon, the focus of vocational classes is to teach students valuable skills that can be directly applied to future careers.

Cosmetology students, in essence, run their own business. By providing services to members of the community, they learn both the artistic skills needed to become a successful cosmologist and the appropriate business skills to become successful business owners.

Automechanics is run in much the same way. The auto mechanics class takes donations of old or severely damaged cars and then repairs them. This system provides material for the students and becomes a sort of community recycling effort. In addition to this, any cars that the classes fix up well enough can be sold.

Technical drawing classes range from Basic Technical Drawing, which teaches basic drafting skills, to Architectural and Engineering Drawing Classes, to Advanced Drawing. Architectural students learn architectural styles, interior design, and design their own houses. Engineering students focus, instead, on engineering projects. One of their most popular projects is designing and modeling their own cars. Advanced drawing students have the opportunity to develop their own projects and to work with the computers on the AUTOCAD software, state of the art Computer Assisted Design. These classes give students invaluable skills for any type of design, engineering, or construction careers.

Vocational classes are much more than the "shop" classes of the past. The world is moving fast and Mount Vernon graduates will have no trouble keeping up.

Few schools in Fairfax hailed such diversity as that found in Mount Vernon. With more ethnic diversity than a British-ruled third-world country, it was surprising that tension levels weren't higher than they were. Thanks to such aids as peer mediation, however, nerves remained calm. In the end, everyone managed to make it through by doing their own part and holding their own.

LEADING LIGHT

SENIOR OFFICERS IN ACTION

When students are elected as a class officer, a load of responsibility usually entails. Add this to IB and AP classes, preparing for college, and still maintaining a social life, and you come up with a very busy schedule.

The senior officers had many goals for their senior year. The first one was the right to senior privileges. These entailed the usual senior courtyard, an unprecedented senior lunch line, and the use of the faculty dining room during inclement weather. Another goal for the officers was to have a senior surprise once a month.

"I'm very pleased with the performance of our senior class officers. I think it's great that we have senior privileges, and we owe it all to the officers," said senior Tim Andrews.

One of the major goals of the officers was to have a senior class trip. In order to do this, the officers had to plan fund-raisers to provide the money. One of the most important items on the agenda is to make sure that graduation runs smoothly.

"It's been an honor to serve the class as an officer. It's a great feeling to know that you're playing an active role in making our senior the best it can be. I enjoy hearing a variety of ideas from very diverse sources," said senior Class President Jennifer Malkin.

Overall, the senior class officers, Jennifer Malkin, Sarah Boykin, Shawn Dubravac, Adam Hatchl, and T.J. Hughes have done a very good job in making their senior year the greatest it could be. They deserved the respect from their peers for being able to balance their time, and still accomplish their goals. Without the help of Mr. Simmons, Ms. Williams, and the senior class officers, the senior's last year would not have been as memorable.

SHINING DESTINY

SENIORS PREPARE FOR COLLEGE

As graduation day approached, the one thing on every senior's mind was college. From the start of the year, seniors were forces to start considering where they wanted to go to college, and what they wanted their major to be.

Seniors did this by attending college fairs or visiting college campuses that they were considering. Researching in the Career Center was also an option. Also, if students were lucky, a college they may have been interested in could have been visiting the school.

"By attending college presentations, as well as college fairs, I have been trying to figure out which college suits me best. Mrs. Hingle in the Career Center has helped out immensely," said senior Mark Bartlett.

Practicing with applications was a process that many of the guidance counselors recommended. Also, writing personal essays was helpful. Many of the 12th grade English teachers assigned personal essay projects to prepare their students for college applications.

I've been looking over college applications, visiting campuses, and talking to different college representatives. It's been a time-consuming process trying to decide which college is right for me," said senior Vicki Lawrence.

Deciding which college was the right one was pretty tough, especially when the choice was narrowed down to two or three prospects. Once seniors had been accepted at the college of their choice, it was a stress-free ride until they walked across the stage to receive their diplomas.

SENIOR REGRETS

Time has gone by really fast, almost as fast as light, especially for seniors. A lot of them wished that they had never done what they did. In a way this was good, for some. This made them wake up into the world, while others just kept on trying.

"We regret getting caught by Mr. Julian while going out to lunch and getting caught by Mrs. McConnell with boys in our room after hours on the chorus trip. Having to do bills for Mrs. Shue's government class. We Regret having to get up at 6:00 am every morning. Regret all the wasted time." Said seniors Paula Kolas and Shawna Demello.

Sometimes it was good to realize the wrong doings and accept them. Students took for granted the importance of time. While others just wished they had learned a different language.

"We regret not having used time wisely, not taking German as freshmen. Even not having gotten involve with school activities. Also having to have underclassmen friends, " said seniors Idalia Rodriguez and Katie Heflin. There will come a time where all the regrets that all the seniors had would be helpful in the future. A lot of seniors advised the underclassmen to use time wisely and to always keep things organized and on time.

PLANETARY SHIFTS

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

College is the next big step for most seniors. Preparing for college was one of the major stresses seniors went through during their last year in high school. As for Ondre Tanks, it wasn't difficult. He received a scholarship offer from a college in Maryland during the first semester. Decisions varied for students on what kind of college they wanted to attend. They also had different views of what to expect from college and why they were going. "I hope that I'll improve myself as a person and that I'll benefit from it," said Kamilah Mitcham.

For many it will be one of the best experiences of their lives. Or it may not be what they expected it to be. College is where you're receive advanced learning to prepare you for the rest of your life. Melanie Lamar said, "I'm ready to get a good education so I can be prepared for the 'real world'. I'm ready for a change and to move on with my life." College will definitly change peoples lives and help them determine what's coming for them in the future.

THE TURNING OF TIDES

SENIORS WENT THROUGH MANY CHANGES

We all go through many changes as we are growing up. Everything changes, our bodies, personalities, and life itself. Changes could be for the best or may be one of the most difficult things we have to deal with and learn to accept. "One of the biggest changes I had was learning to adjust to all of the events that occurred during the years I spent at Mount Vernon," said Sengpeth Vongsomsack. And those were some of the things seniors had to experience and to deal with, the changes in life. Especially the fact the they were entering the real world and becoming independent.

Jennifer Malkin said she's gotten more open minded about things. "I have learned to stand up on my own and rely on myself more than others."

For Ebony Lewis, studies were one of the changes she noticed in her life. "You have to put more hours into your work, your personality changes, and you have to become more responsible."

For many seniors, changes were for the better and for some, they were hard to adjust to. Up to his senior year Terrence Dunkley believed he matured a lot, found out what his priorities were, and became more respectful towards others. Eventually they came to find that they benefited from the changes in their lives. Changes can be difficult to adjust to but now it's going to be up to us to make them happen to make the difference.

SENIOR'S FUTURE PLANS

To most people seniors never knew what they were going to do after their graduation, but this was not always true. "Once I leave High School, I'm going into the Air Force, as a law Enforcement Specialist" senior Kenneth Abner said.

The Air Force, Army or Navy wasn't always in a lot of the senior's minds. Those who liked sports, dancing, music and other activities were going to go for it. "I'm going to play baseball as long as possible, and also become a successful writer, whether college is involve or not" said senior Jim Titus.

There were some that wanted to become dentist, doctors or simply get involve with medicine. "I'm planning to be a successful dentist and own my own practice." said senior Crystal McLean.

Setting goals and achieving them, is a big reward for any one. Seniors achieved their goals by graduating and receiving their diplomas.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

When the school year is just beginning one of the most important events for every class is to choose their class officers. Who are not only going to organize every single event, but guide and represent the student body.

Choosing who can best represent students is not always so easy. This year's junior class officers were: Class president- LaShonda Maxfield, Vice-President- Jenice Woody, Secretary- Minh Le, and senators- Jeremy McLaughlin and Holly Urguhart.

All the junior class officers met every Wednesday afternoon to discuss their projects and the ideas that were going to be put into practice. As we all know they organized one of their long waiting project "Prom." Just like all the past years the prom was a success.

Being a class officer takes a lot of students time. They dedicated themselves to their work and did the best to make the best out of the Class of 1996.

STARRY NIGHTS

PROM PREPERATION

The tradition here at school was that the junior class had the responsibility to organize the prom and make sure that there was money for the expenses necessary. The junior class for 1994-1995 planned on selling candy and baking goods to sell, among other things. They were also in charge of selling the tickets as well as deciding when and where the prom was going to be held. This past year the Prom took place at West Park Hotel located on Rosslyn VA, May 19, 1995.

WORSHIPING THE SUN

ROLE MODELS

A role model is a person or possibly a character people look up to and admire. According to Andrea Sanders, "a role model should be respectable, honest, self-confident, and be happy with themselves." It's a big responsibility when being considered or expected to be a role model, because you play a big part in some people's lives. When we were little kids, we always had someone whom we looked up to and wanted to become like. Christian Bassily looks up to his cousin, Harvey, because how works hard to achieve what he wants and is not a quitter. Some people idolize people who have the same interests as them. For Herman Prescott, Ken Griffey is his role model because he's very athletic and good at baseball. Now that we are maturing and about to enter an important time on our lives, we are going to have others depending on us for guidance. We are going to have to take on leadership to guide everyone in the right direction. It'll be important for us to set an example and make smart decisions in order for it to be necessary to encourage people the essentials in life. For Melane Yarbough, her father plays an important part on her life because he influenced her to work hard and filled her with encouragement. In a world like ours today, we're in need for more positive role models to lead us in the right direction.

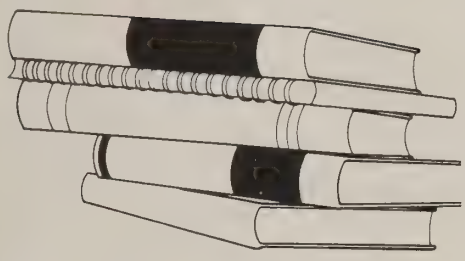
Junior Sara Stratford waits outside the Library for her turn at the photocopy machine. Some students found it helpful to get coppies of information about the SAT's to go over a home.

Junior Diane Short walks down the hall carrying an arm full of books. Students worked hard in their studies as well as preparing for the SAT's.

QUANTUM LEAPS

IT'S SAT TIME !



It was that time of year again. A time when Juniors started to get that funny feeling in the pit of their stomachs because they knew that the SAT's were lurking somewhere around the corner.

Some were not worried at all, they felt that passing the SAT's would be as easy as passing any old test, but most of the time this was not the case. "I don't know how I'm gonna do but I think I'll probably be somewhere in the middle. I'm working really hard to get ready for it," said Junior Jaime Segovia.

There were many ways to prepare to take the SAT's, study groups, SAT books that one could buy at any old book shop, and advice from helpful teachers. " I'm gonna try and take an SAT prep class," said junior Courtney Brady.

No matter how much they prepared for it SAT's were a very stressful time for Juniors. It was not easy looking down at a sheet of scantron paper and a little booklet knowing it played a major role in you future. Many Juniors looked at this as a challenge that was overcome with patience and hard work.

Juniors worked hard in school preparing for the SAT's. Not only was a good score need to help obtain a better future but a good academic background in school.

Being all they can be.... Sophomores Ann Harris, Holly Jourdan, Shalee Dubravac Letecia Manning, and Chris Finnigan did an outstanding job of organizing the year for the Sophomore class.

This year their main focus was on homecoming. The theme was "The Jungle Book". Also, Ann Harris said that they planned a fund-raiser which would go towards next years prom and homecoming. During these fund-raisers items with the school logo were sold to students, staff, and the community.

After homecoming, they began a new project aimed at improving the appearance of their locker bank. The sophomores were really lucky to have had such devoted students at their side.

The Big Bang
Sophomores driving for the first time.

Finally the moment had arrived. It was time to take the test for your driver's permit. The difficulty of the exam depended on when students took their driver's education class. Some students hadn't even taken their driver's ed class when they took the test.

For some students, driving for the first time was scary, but very exciting. This was the first step towards ultimate freedom achieved when attaining the actual driver's license. However, this incorporated a long journey sometimes frequented by embarrassing moments when caught driving with one of your parents in front of your friends. This is extremely embarrassing when your friends all had their licenses, and you had just gotten your permit. "At first I thought it was a great thing, but then I realized I had to drive for my parents. It didn't seem like a big deal after that," said senior Noah Kaufman.

One of the other advantages to having a learners permit was more respect from parents. To drive the family car meant an added responsibility. Parents usually respected this responsibility, and gave their children a little more freedom.

"I'm really excited, because once I have my permit, I can take behind-the-wheel. After that, I can get my license," said sophomore Punu Nagra. Overall, most students enjoyed the burden of a driver's permit. Each student looked forward to the day when they would be driving their friends around.

This would be the day when they wouldn't have to depend on their parents for rides.

By: BRAD CLARK

Learning how to drive offered a new freedom to many Sophomores. They no longer needed to rely on their friends for rides if they needed to get away.

Sophomores Friends

The world needs more of these . . .

Everybody needs good friends said "Sophomore Rosanne Lightowher."

Recently I did a study on sophomore friendship. I observed that sophomores wanted to be accepted by their friends and that they have a circle of friends that they consider their buddies. A true buddy is when a person shares common values with each other.

Best friends Carmen Hernandez and Claudia Cornejo said "a true buddy is someone you can count on, and can trust. "She then went on to say that "a person whom you can talk to whenever you have problems could be most likely your best friend."

Belinda Blough said her best friend is her boyfriend junior Bryan Sprint. She said she and her buddy share their most intimate secrets with each other, and that they don't have to worry about everybody knowing their secrets. That's what I call a best friend.

This student took the term dream date too seriously and decided to really dream about that special someone out there.

WISHING ON A STAR

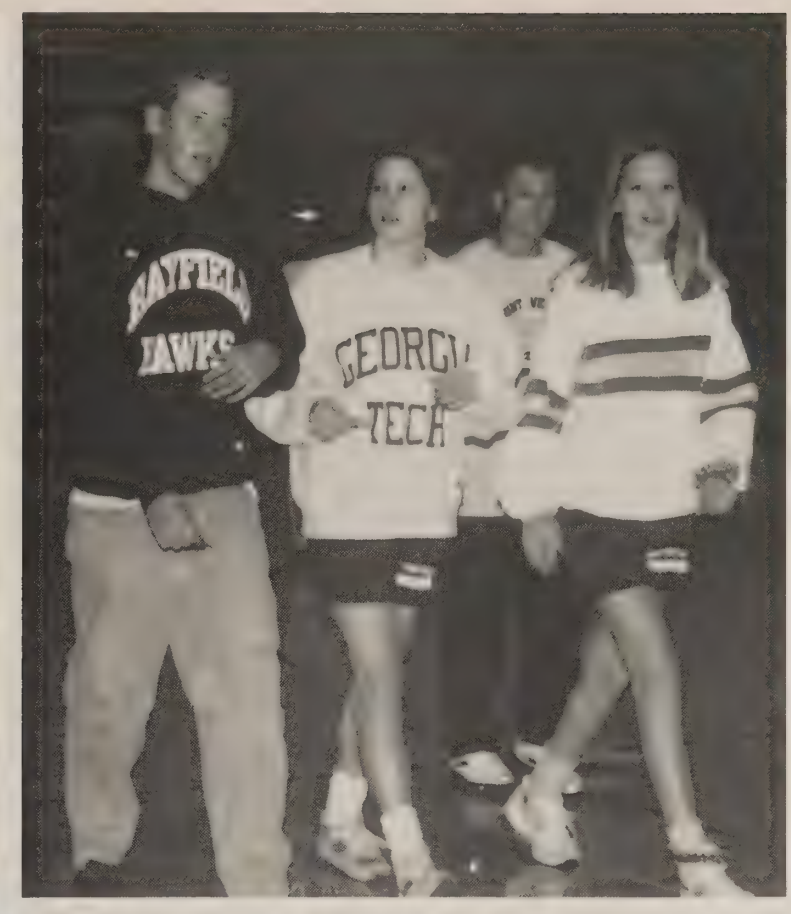
Most people have dream dates that they would like to go out on, but most never get the chance to realize some of those dreams. Here is what some Sophomores said about their dream dates. "My dream date is with R. Kelly. On the date I want him to take me shopping, to his studio, to the Bahamas, give me a million dollars and I definitely want him to divorce Aaliyah," said Sophomore Tennisha Walker.

Sophomore Tasha Berg said, "My dream date is a Gentleman and someone that respects me and the way I feel." Some Sophomores said they didn't really have a dream date. But an ideal date would have been someone that's not boring or all about themselves.

By: Jasmin Clayton



Some guys out there didn't spend all their time alone with just one girl. Some had many friends that were girls as well as their one true girl friend.

This student blows a kiss to her prince charming. Whether or not one's dream date was real or just a dream they held a special place in people's hearts.

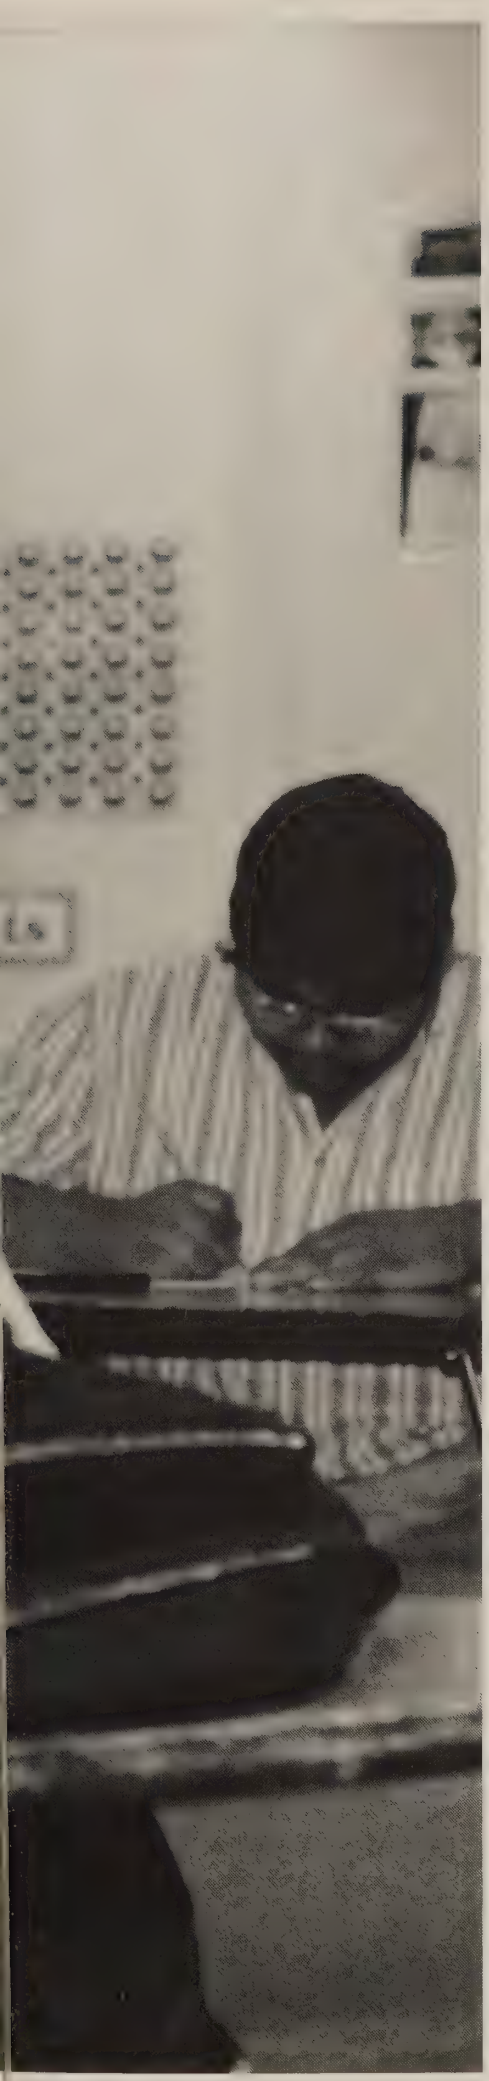
Like the students in this picture the freshmen class officers were faced with having to handle their school work as well as fulfill their duties as officers.

Like freshman Janine Lawson, the freshman class officers knew the value of hard work.



SHINING STARS

FRESHMEN CLASS OFFICERS

Class Officer. It is a title that carries a lot of responsibility. The new freshmen class officers had a ton of work ahead of them. Life in High School is much different than anything experienced in Junior High, this includes choosing hard working students to represent the Freshman class.

Fund-raising and special events have to be planned, which are both very major undertakings. In future years Homecoming and the Prom are other things that the new class officers have to keep in mind. Money has to be set aside for future high school years and the officers who will take over if the old ones leave or aren't re-elected.

No matter what grade you were from a class officer had to be hard working and dedicated. The Freshman class officers faced a whole world of new challenges and deserve a pat on the back for doing such a good job.

Freshmen class officers were faced with the new and confusing job of managing their class and bringing it together. It was hard to do this with such a diverse group of students.

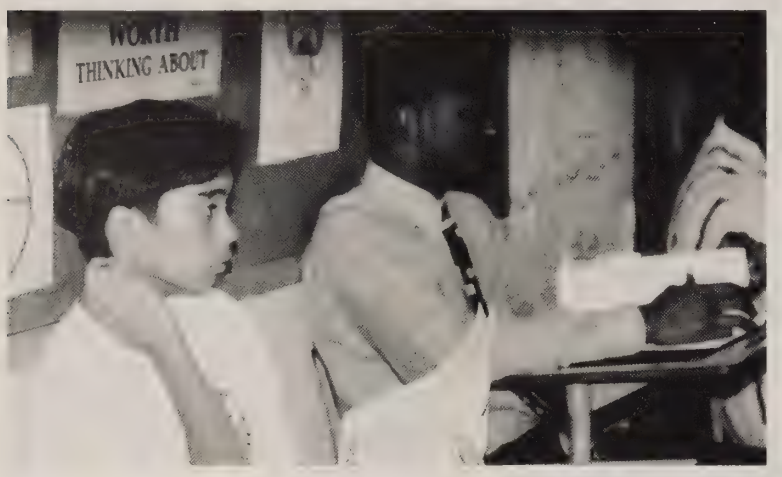
Like the student in this picture most freshmen were nervous about starting high school. Managing their time was especially hard.

This student like many of the Freshmen, had to get used to spending long hours in the computer lab. With all the projects and essays that freshmen had to work on no one was unfamiliar with using the computer lab.



BLACK HOLE ADJUSTMENT

Starting High School has always been very hard for most people. It takes a lot of getting used to. Sometimes students spend their entire four years just wondering where they fit into the High School social hierarchy.

One of the worst things that awaited freshmen was that they were on the lowest rung of the ladder and were looked down upon by the upperclassmen. Most freshmen had no problem with this because they knew that one day their time would come and they would be at the top looking down.

Another big adjustment that freshmen had to make was managing their time between school work and their social lives. They were faced with a lot of new responsibilities and challenges. Starting high school is never easy for anyone but most of the freshmen were very determined to meet these changes with a smile.

Weekends were always full activity, but they did not always offer an escape from school. This Freshman spent a lot of her time on the weekends preparing for her performance at International Night.

IT'S FRIDAY! Students hurried to their buses, eager to start the weekend. Two days of rest and relaxation were always welcomed after five days at school.

HIGH TIDE
FRESHMEN WEEKENDS

A total success! It took time for freshman Phonpheth Vongsomack and friends to rehearse for their performance for the fashion show at the International Night during the weekends.

Too little time

Weekends, it's a common word that teenagers use. When that bell rang for the students to leave school everyone was jumping for joy. Most students said they spent their weekends just hanging out with their friends.

Well known freshmen cheerleaders, Sylvia Reed and Rinee Boonyoo said that they spent their weekends watching action paced movies, going to school football games and hanging around shopping malls. "A good way to spend your weekends is to relax and listen to some really good music," said B.J. Anderson as Travis Billups added, "that's what I call a weekend."

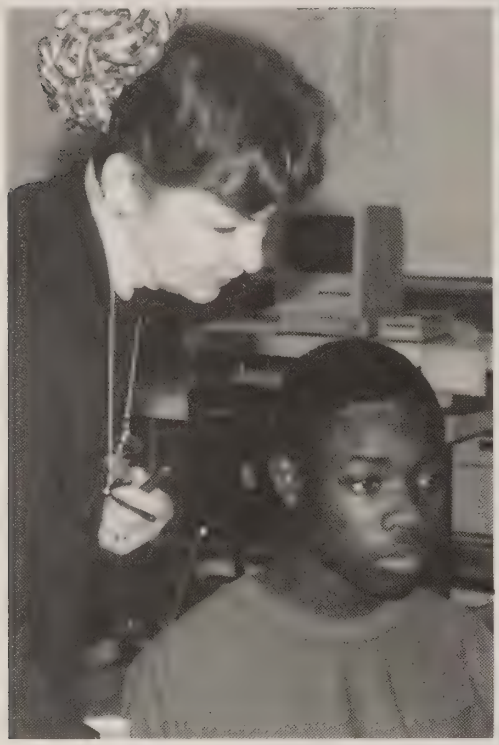
Quit beeping at me!! Let's face it, we're in the computer age and these complex little machines are here to stay. One goal of some freshmen was to become a zen master of the computer.

What's the answer? Freshmen were faced with many new responsibilities which included mountains of work.



POINTS OF LIGHT
FRESHMEN GOALS

This year the freshmen class had a lot of goals that they wanted to achieve. Here is what a few freshmen said: "All we want to do is pass" said Edwin Duran and Iwya Anderson, Maryann Brookie said "to do a good performance in drama and get an A in algebra." Freshmen face many new challenges now that they are in high school. Not only do their teachers expect more from them but so do the everyday people in their lives.

Freshman Sherrie Williams had something else in mind when she said that she wanted "to make this freshman class be the best there ever was." Those are just a few of the many goals that freshmen wanted to accomplish during their high school career.

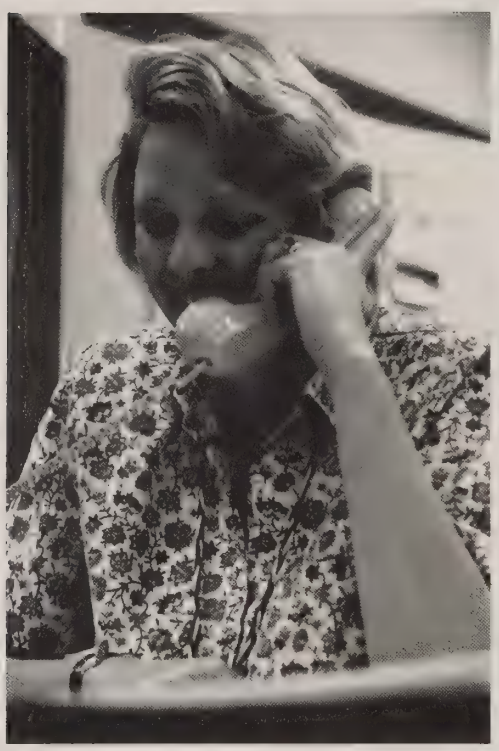
Hello? Mrs. Hingle from the career center received a lot of respect from students due to her nice personality and helpful nature.

Mrs. Jones and Mr. Ingalls chat in the hall between classes. Both of these teachers are very popular and receive respect from their students because they give respect back to their classes.



RED GIANTS

HOW TEACHERS FEEL ABOUT RESPECT

Respect has a lot of different meanings in our changing society. Some teachers might have felt that many students lacked respect for them and the school, but many others had a different view. "Sometimes kids don't get the respect they deserve from adults. I think in school we have to remember that respect doesn't go just from kids to adults but from adults to kids too. It's common courtesy," said English teacher Joyce Jones.

Many teachers shared similar views, that there was no lack of respect coming from the student body. Government teacher Mrs. Shue stated, "I have never felt a lack of respect from my students in the classroom, ever. They are courteous and respectful, as long as you respect them."

Most teachers and students alike agreed that respect should never be given away freely, but should be earned. There is a certain amount of respect that any teacher is due but if the students felt that their teachers were unrespectful of them they often did not take them seriously. It was always a lot better when people stopped looking at it as giving an "adult" or a "kid" some respect but started looking at it as respecting their fellow human beings.

By: TERRIE DIPRIMO

Ha Ha! Learning, as well as teaching can be fun. Teachers who add a little humor in their lessons got a lot more respect than those whose teaching techniques were pretty cut and dry.

I don't wanna listen! Ok, teachers can act like kids too. English teacher Mrs. Clark jokes with her students by covering her ears in the middle of class.

Teachers who took the time to listen to their students and help them with problems received the most respect.

Teachers always gave a lot of free time during and after school to help their students.

Coach Steel flashes a smile to the camera as he hurries down the hall.

IN A GALAXY OF THEIR OWN

I know you want some! Standing in front of the first lunch line, the staff member looks into the camera and smiles.

Picture this, you walk into a room that is filled with pillows, cushioned chairs, and a wide array of jungle-like plants. No, this isn't someone's living room, it's an actual classroom. Mr. Ingalls used many unique ideas as well as the unique environment of his classroom to enhance his students' learning capabilities.

"I think that Mr. Ingalls is fairly unique, because he uses abstract ideas and lessons to teach English. He makes you want to come to class," said Junior Andrea Sanders.

On the whole, students enjoyed their classes more when their teachers made it more interesting. Students tended to get bored if teachers used a traditional, non-enthusiastic approach to teaching. A little excitement went a long way to keep a student's attention, especially with long, two hour periods present in block scheduling.

"I feel that Mrs. Galperin has been the most unique teacher that I've encountered at Mount Vernon. Her energetic teaching dynamics grabbed my attention, and kept me interested," said Sophomore Shalee Dubravac.

All of the school's teachers deserve a hand. Most students seemed very satisfied with the performance and energetic teaching styles of their teachers. Thanks teachers for being personable, unique, and keeping us interested.

PHASES OF THE MOON
TEACHERS IN HIGH SCHOOL

From bell bottoms to baggies, from The Beatles to Ace of Base, life has changed like the phases of the moon since teachers went to high school. Not only have the trends changed but the attitudes of the students and the challenges of school as well. "When I was in high school life seemed much simpler than it is now. Students have much more to contend with than students in my time," said Mrs. Warner.

For many teachers, high school helped to prepare them for the rest of their lives. "I loved high school and I know that's why I became a high school teacher. I spent every minute that I could there rather than home. Teachers went to ball games and band meetings, they were very accessible. School activities were our social life," said Mrs. Joyce Jones. The high school experiences of students and teachers haven't really changed much throughout the years, and the memories are special, no matter what generation you are from.

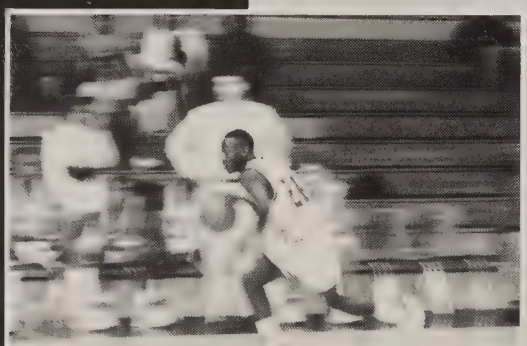
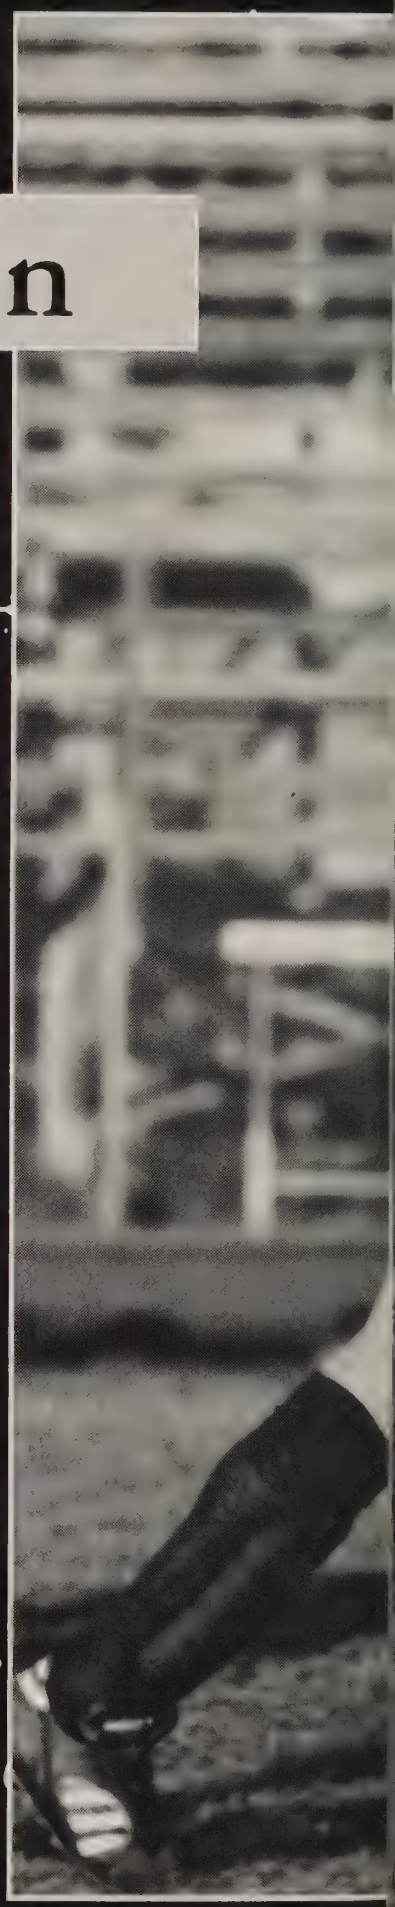
Planetary Motion

Power. Pride. Determination. Confidence. These four elements combined to form the pile-driving force which is the MV sports program. Mount Vernon celebrated this year as it made a record comeback in many of its sports. While some teams proved successful on their respective win columns, our other teams also accomplished significant goals. Through determination, desire, and a full-fledged commitment to give 110 percent, our spirited teams always challenged the opposition with an unholy defiance.



Moving at warp speed, Freshman Deshawn Brown jets ahead of the competition. Speed was an essential part to the MV power machine.



With grim determination, Johanne Reina charges ahead with unstoppable force. Such determination formed the spearhead of the MV softball team.

Displaying his MV pride, Junior David Furgeson raises his fist to the air. Pride flowed through the MV soccer team like water through the river.

Staying calm, Junior Charles Boylston confidently pins his opponent. Confidence was a determining factor in the struggle on the mat.

PFOHREG!

The Golf team did us proud this season by winning four matches and losing only three in regular season play and placed third in the National District tournament. This team was lead by golf expert Pat Langley, who finished fifth in the National District medalist competition with a score of 160 in 36 holes (wowy!) played in a span of two days at Twin Lakes Golf Course. Mike Makara, who also is the worlds foremost computer genius, second only to Grant Graeber, was a leader of this team along with the uncanny professionalism and ability of Chris Tank and Steve Lee.

But we shan't forget the dedication and key shooting of Trevor Atkins and Chris Tippins who both bring experience and great accuracy to the game. But none of these players would be where they are today if it weren't for their coach Jim Sparling, because we all know that without a coach the school board won't let you form a team. Coach Sparling, who is in a lifelong pursuit for the second gunman on the grassy knoll, lead the golfing Majors to this victorious season by molding the raw talent of these fine players into the finely tuned winning machines that they are.

Girls Tennis rebuilt from the ground up this year. With a new coach by the name of Bob Dunlap, no seniors, one juniors, and two sophomores on the team this was a predominantly freshman team. But this seemed to create an interesting aura of determination and motivation. You see, these young freshman not yet realized that if you work hard once people will expect you to work hard again. This team was co-captained by the veteran junior Audrey Williams and the seasoned sophomore Ann Harris.

Running Across the Country

There is no room on the cross-country team for the casual jogger. The 3.1 mile race is intense, fast, and exhausting. Runners must contend with the weather, hills, mud, and fallen trees. Practices are not any easier with 8-mile runs, speed workouts on the track, and strength workouts on hills. The team ran a combined total ofover 6000 miles during the season—enough to run across the country and back again.

The 1994 cross-country team, led by Coach Charles Brown, was a small one with just over 20 runners. The girls' team, plagued by asthma and injuries, managed a 4th place finish at the district race. They will only lose one senior and put future hopes in returning sophomore Carrie Boyce. Carrie Boyce won several dual meets forher teamthis year. She placed 17th in the Regional Meet at Burke Lake with a time of 19:14. Cathy Hanley and Deena Johnson, newcomers to the sport, also show promise for next year.

The boys' team placed 5th in the National District and will be losing four of its varsity runners to graduation, including Noa Hammer who won 6 of the team's dual meets. The remainder of the team is very young, but has lots of talent and potential. Next year's returning corps of freshmen will be led by Ben Harvey and Alex Shiplett.

GIRLS HOCKEY

But with funny sticks, skirts, on a grass field and no pucks.

The Mount Vernon field hockey team finished their best season in ten years with an 8-4-2 season which showed what a little determination, a new coach, and some team spirit can do. Senior Mandy Redfern, who was awarded first team All-Regional honors, expressed that she was "proud to finish four years of field hockey with such good season."

This season brought about regional and district awards for Rebecca Jeffreys, Katie Kelly, Huong Ly, Jen Dodd, and Gina Miller.

These individual efforts plus the help of the rest of the team resulted in their first ever appearance at the Northern Regional Tournament. Katie Kelly said she was glad that "we made it" to the Regional Tournament.

Cate Sheafe, the new field hockey coach made a big difference in the team's attitude and ability. Mandy Redfern believes that "next years team will have an even better season, and go further in the play-offs."

This was a new and exciting season for Varsity football team. As senior Darnley Hodge put it, "This season started off like a horse race. We began at a trot and ended in a full speed gallop."

With Coach Renner's resignation last year and a new coaching staff this year, the team had to reorganize themselves. Many players changed from positions they had been playing since their freshman year to new positions. Some liked the change, others did not.

"When you are in your senior year of football, the last thing you want is change, especially if you were comfortable where you were," expressed Jim Sparling (12).

However, most of the team thought that the overall change was good. The new head coach, Marty Riddle, organized a weight lifting program to help some players improve their strength and stamina. Coach Riddle also helped to improve the pride in the football program to both those playing on field and those in the bleachers.

The M.V. Wrestling Team pinned a lot of opponents to win a lot of matches.

"Wrestling is the toughest sport in high school. It is tremendously challenging, both mentally and physically. When you're on the mat, no one can help you. It is like a six minute all-out sprint" said senior Noah Kaufman.

The Wrestling Team lost 10 out of 13 starters from the previous year's team. Even so, they still managed to gave a very competitive season. Throughout the season, they were led by their senior Co-Captains Noah Kaufmen, Adam Hughes, and Chang Yi. They were also the only starters returning from last year's team. The team was coached by John Frerichs, who in his tenure as head coach, had built the team from last place in the district into a District powerhouse and Regional contender.

Over the next few months, the Majors posted some upsets in dual meets against Lee, Robinson, and Annandale. In the District Tournament, the team placed 2nd. Five wrestlers made it to the finals, and all of them won. Finishing in 1st place in the District was Noah Kaufman, Adam Hughes, Carl Navia, Brian Healy, and Chang Yi. Placing 3rd was Danny Convery, and Geovani Corvera. Placing 4th was Steve Smith , Trevor Atkins, Chris Beir, Kevin Healy, and Chris Finnigan. By placing in the top four at districts, the entire team qualified for the Northern Region Tournament.

At the Regional tournament, the team placed 6th out of 27 teams. Noah Kaufman placed 4th, Adam Hughes placed 3rd, and Chang Yi was the Grand Champion for the heavyweight class! Chang Yi was only the second Regional Champion from Mount Vernon High School in the last decade. Those three wrestlers qualified for the State Tournament. Overall the wrestling team had a fantastic season!

It was a rough season for the Boys Varsity basketball team. "We had great expectations and got caught up in outside influences," explains junior Sean Floyd. But, according to some of the players, even with the team struggling with injuries, attitude problems, apathy, quitting and bad morale they still managed to win more games than last season.

Many of the players think that although there were problems throughout the season, they improved from the last. In comparison, this season's team had more talent and experience, and learned to work together more.

On a sad note, after several years of coaching basketball, Coach Steele has been relieved of his head coaching position. However, he will continue to keep teaching psychology at MV for another year before going on to achieve other things. According to Coach Steele he will not coach or teach at any other school because he says that "Mount Vernon is a very special place" to him.

It was also an exciting learning experience for some players. "We learned the psychological part of basketball that every successful team needs," recalls sophomore Aaron Yarbough.

As for the freshman team, they realized that winning is not always easy. They finished off the season with a 6-10 overall record. However, they showed great effort and teamwork which will help those who will continue to play basketball next year.

The spotlight was on the Mt. Vernon Gymnastics team because of their incredible season.

The Mt. Vernon Gymnastics team had an exciting season. Their team had a lot of depth to it consisting of about 10 seniors that headed the team and also about 14 new and returning gymnasts that will help the team in the future.

Their was only one returning all-around performer that competed in all the events, Lara Henry. She did each of the events; the floor exercise, vault, balance beam and even bars. Lara strived in all the events, which made her a very successful all-around. The rest of the team competed on one or two events a meet. Nancy Stevens and Gina Miller were the captains of the team. Nancy suffered from a back injury that took her out of some meets. Her main event was the vault. Gina, who is normally an all-around competitor was also injured and mainly concentrated on the floor exercise, placeing in the top 6 in the district in that event. Other seniors include Cathy Marlatt (bars, vault), Vicki Lawrence (Beam and floor), Lindsay Gainer (beam) and Jennifer Malkin (floor). With these seniors and with the help of the rest of the team were able to capture the 2nd place title for the National District. This qualified them to advance to the Regional competition.

The coaches of the gymnastics team are Mrs. Barbara Clark and Ms. Linda Troung they were both really impressed with how well the team did this season. Mrs. Clark commented that "This was a great group of kids and true high school gymnasts. It was the first time in ten years that the team made it to the Regional competition." Lacrosse Steps It Up—and That's the Bottom Line

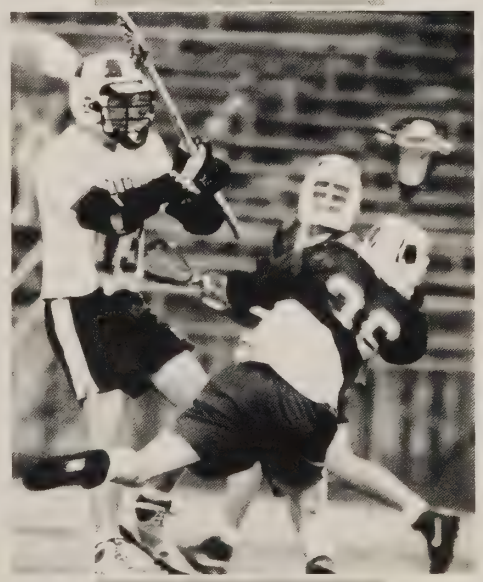
Mount Vernon's Varsity Lacrosse Team got some new leadership this year on their coaching staff. Coach Bruce Walker headed up the staff and set a new standard at Mount Vernon. The Varsity Lacrosse team, under his leadership, is becoming more than just a team. It's becoming a program. Although the varsity team itself was small this year, the JV team certainly had numbers. Numbers and enthusiasm are the foundation for the Mount Vernon program.

Team captains this year were seniors Mark Bartlett and Steve Truong, both of which are going on to play college ball next year. Mark Bartlett ran the offense from midfield, with aggressive play on ground balls. Mark led the team in assists. Steve Truong played attack and was the Majors' offensive powerhouse. He led the team in goals, despite often having to fight off double and triple teams. Steve was Mount Vernon's Most Valuable Player for the previous1994 season.



Senior Neal Beggan and junior Oliver Sharpe also played attack and didn't have trouble cranking and quick-sticking the ball past opposing goalies. Seniors Danny Bayles and Noa Hammer were the other starters on midfield. They put in strong play on both ends of the field and on ground balls. Bayles was a member of the "Man-up" team and Hammer played on the "Man-down" team. Mike Makara and Adam Hatchl held down the defensive end of the field, bruising opponents with malicious checks and hard-hitting "inside-bloods." Shawn Dubravac, Ryan Downey, and Jon Reed also had their share of checks down on defense. Sean Petitt played in the cage for his first year on varsity. He did a tremendous job. Mike Jones, the backup goalie, also played some defense.

The Majors had a strong season and look forward to the future. The lacrosse program at Mount Vernon looks to get stronger. With numbers and enthusiasm, the Majors will find continued success and improvement.

Women's Lacrosse Makes a Statement

The Lady Majors took the field for their second season this spring. The program seems to be exploding under the leadership of Coach Douglas. Over 40 girls tried out this year, which allowed a JV team to be formed.

The program, being so new, found it difficult to chalk up wins. Several ladies on the varsity team had never played lacrosse before, and they were pitted against teams with a few years experience. The varsity squad was competitive, though, and improved in leaps and bounds as the season progresed. Seniors Cathy Marlatt and Laura Harbour and Junior Tobi Denick were the varsity squad's three captains. Both Laura and Tobi played a variety of positions, basically wherever Coach Douglas needed them. The two ladies were the punch in the Majors' offense. They both found the back of the net several times during the course of the year, leading the team in scoring.

Cathy Marlatt provided the leadership on the defensive end of the field. Liza Washington and Suzanne Watts, both returning players, put in strong play on defense as well. Tammy Duricka played goalie for a second year, robbing opponents of scoring opportunities.

The Junior Varsity team, led by Coach Young, was a relatively inexperienced team. Most of the team had never played the game before. They played hard, though, and had talented athletes. Team captains were goalie Roxanne Mason, Christy Carlson, and Heather Kempthorne.

The Women's Lacrosse Program at Mt. Vernon is certainly on the rise. Several varsity players will return next year, and they will get help from the up-and-coming JV players. The team is looking forward to good things to come.

Watch out for the boys Mt. Vernon Tennis team!

Forty-love! This was a phrase that the members of the Mount Vernon boy's Tennis Team enjoyed saying this season. Thrown into a new district. The tennis team struggled through its matches against new teams Wakefield, Yorktown, Stuart, and Washington-Lee. These Arlington teams have tennis feeder programs training kids in tennis through the years. This made the teams very tough to compete with. "The team worked hard this year, and we had a couple of talented players on the team. Had we been in our old district the competitions might have been much closer," said Senior captain Brad Clark.

The team also saw the addition of new coach Ms. Heather Leach. This was the teams' third coach in four years. However, she provided continual support, and taught the team many techniques to help them win. She emphasized tthe basics, and made the team go through many drills to improve these skills.

"Coach Leach was definitely an added bonus this year. She was always there for us, and worked with us until we were playing the best we could possibly play," said senior captain Geoff Chatham.

The team was led by Captains, Geoff Chatham and Brad Clark, and Seniors Noah Kaufman, Brian Hackett, and Dave Ratliff. The seniors worked with the team to instill pride and camraderie throughout the team.

"We're just trying to teach the team what it's like to play with pride and spirit. Hopefully, the seniors next year will be able to pass this along to the underclassmen," said Senior Brian Hackett.

Soccer is a game of lateral movement, if one cannot jump an abnormal amount, one should not play soccer. Jumping often means reversing the direction of the ball with one's skull.

Soccer often resembles a jumbled mass. This is a sport of collisions and contusions, a competition of brute strength and solid power.

The Varsity Girls Soccer Team is young, but have a lot of potential!

The Mount Vernon Girls Soccer team is looking to rebuild this year. The team is very young with no seniors and only five juniors. They will be competing in the National District for the first time and hope to place in the top three teams.

"We have a very unique situation in that a large group of us have played together for several years," said junior Liz Gerloff. Ten of the fourteen members of the team play for the same club team year-round. This keeps them in shape and ready to compete on the high school level when spring comes.

Teamwork Pays Off for Majors

The Mount Vernon Majors came back strong this year. With only four returning players and a relatively young team, they still chalked up an impressive record.

The main focus of the Majors Softball is "team" (together, everyone accomplishes more). The captains this year were Gina Miller, Jen Hanley, and Katie Kelly. They had a lot of responsibility for the team and proved to be strong leaders. Coach Tepper relied on them for much more than just leading warmups. The captains were responsible for team attitude and enthusiasm. "The attitudes were great and everyone really worked hard and worked together, especially in tough situations," said Gina Miller.

The team went to Camp Highroad for several days before they began their schedule. Camp Highroad helpeddevelop the team and let the ladies get to know eachother better.

Some of the players on varsity this year were new to the game. Marah Donopoli and Karen Obermeyer showed a great deal of perseverance learning the game and it showed in their performance on the field. The four returning players were, Gina Miller, Katie Kelly, Mandy Redfern, and JohAnne Reina. Gina and Mandy were the speed in the outfield and running bases. JohAnne had the power at bat. Katie Kelly, playing catcher, was busy throwing out runners. The three Hanley sisters, Jen, Cathy, and Cyndi, also were strong players and formed the nucleus for pitching and the infield.

Mount Vernon Softball had an extremely successful season this year and the future looks bright, with a lot of young returning players.

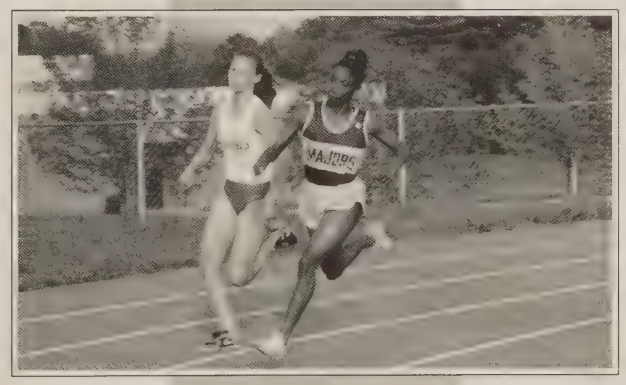
Winning Season

With Dawane Wallace and Felicia Cooksey we can't loose!

The track team had a successful season. There is a saying that you can't judge a team by the quantity but the quality of the athletes. This is true about the Mt. Vernon track team. They only had about forty kids come out for the team. By the end of the season they were lucky to have twenty. But because of the great runners, jumpers, and sprinters the track team still placed in the top two in the National District. Then about half the team went to the Regional competition, and Dawane Wallace and Felicia Cooksey both qualified for the State meet as well.



Dewane Wallace will be going to the University of Tennessee on a full scholarship. "The coaches and members of the Track team were very supportive and encouraging, I could have never have made it as far as I did without them," said Dawane Wallace.

Mt. Vernon will be sorry to have to give him up but, "We know Dawane will do great things," said head coach Charlie Brown.

Athletes with Loud Voices and Big Smiles

It takes a lot to be a cheerleader, and the ladies on Mount Vernon's JV and Freshman squads worked hard this year. Cheerleading takes a strong voice, flexibility, precision, stamina, endurance, boundless enthusiasm, and lots of smiles. The most important part of being a cheerleader, though, is the time commitment. Cheerleading covers two seasons—football in the fall and basketball in the winter.

The ladies on the Freshman and JV squads were in training toeventually join the Varsity squad. Several of them will move up to varsity next year. The two squads spent a lot of time on stunts, practicing building and mounts. Balance and strength were very important. Cheerleaders put in mileage on on the track to stay in shape and build stamina. They also spent time in the weightroom to build strength. Of course, they stretched endlessly. Everyone on the squad could do the splits. That is quite an accomplishment, in itself. Cheerleaders worked hard during football and basketball games, leading the crowd in cheers and promoting and supporting our teams. There were no timeouts or half-times for these girls. In fact, that's when the squads got really busy, bewildering the crowd with high-flying jumps and human buildings.

The JV team was coached by Christine Rivecco and the two captains were Michellette Jones and Alexa Phelps. Gayle Deaton coached the freshman team. Captains were Jasmin Allen and Heather Markman.

Theteams really appreciated the hard work the cheerleaders put in this year. Cheerleading isn't all fun and games. Their great smiles sure made it look fun, though, and their enthusiasm helped drive many teams to success.

The Great Escape!

A day off from school in the middle of the week and it isn't even a snow day. This meant one thing..... a field trip. Field trips were many of the student's favorite ways to spend a school day. Some of the students in AP Biology went on a field trip to spend a day on the Chesapeake Bay. On this trip the object was to observe and study various wildlife species in their natural habitat. Although fun, this was long and tiring day for the participants.

Another field trip was enjoyed by the Mount Vernon Marching Band. They were lucky enough to take a trip to chapel Hill, North Carolina in the fall and a trip to St. Petersburg, Florida the previous spring. These field trips felt more like vacations than anything else although the band members werekept very busy the entire trip.

"I could hardly consider this a field trip, since we were allowed to spent a day at the beach. The only problem was the make-up work on the return of out trip. That was a bummer, " said one band member.

Not every trip was as luxurious as the band trip, but the students go to spend time away from school none the less learning, studying, practicing, or sight-seeing. The students found this as a great way to spend the day or week depending on what trip they were on.

Mount Vernon wins again! This headline screamed across the front page of the Em Vee High newspaper sponsored by Mrs. Wilson. The newspaper is one of three Mt. Vernon publications. These three are the Em Vee High, the literary magazine, and the yearbook. The literary magazine was sponsored by Mrs. Rufty and the yearbook by Mrs. Cross. These publications provided the students of Mount Vernon with hours of enjoyable fiction or interesting facts and information.

"This was a year of great improvement for the newspaper. We had a change in format, and acquire new technology," said Editor-in-Chief, Senior Mike White.

The literary magazine published student written poems and short stories. The yearbook showcased student pictures, mug shots, and great stories such as this one. The newspaper printed school information, gave the inside scoop on the various sporting events, as well as publishing intriguing editorials. The National Honor Art Society is a club that is similar to the National Honor Society. The only difference is that it's a group of talented students with honors and great interests in are. NHAS member Dong Hen says the qualifications are the same for this organization as it is for the NHS. But you must have already taken Art I. They usually hold fund-raisers for field trips about art. And one of the club's intentions was to do a mural on the wall.

Fun with Marketing

DECA

DECA originally stood for Distributive Education Clubs of America. It's been changed to DECA, an Association for Marketing Students. Fund-raisers are usually held to raise money for events such as the fashion Show and competitions students attend. The Marketing teachers also arrange for guest speakers to come to visit the classes to tell about their working experiences. Students gain knowledge from this and experience as well from fund-raising and participating in competitions. All students enrolled in a Marketing class, may participate and are automatically a member of DECA. DECA is also a part of the National Club Service Organization. They do clothing drives during Christmas time to take to families and they also prepare dinners and do community work. During this past year student ran for State officers. This sometimes motivated students try to take a much bigger role in DECA. This club is also a CO-curricular club.

"What we do is directly related to what we do in the classroom," said Marketing teacher/ Yearbook sponsor/ DECA coordinator Mrs. Cross.

Distant Horizons

Despite pressures from school and home, many students still found time to find a job and enter the labor force. While most of these jobs required little more than the ability to flip packaged meat on a stove, a few students managed to step beyond the fast-food barrier, and even enter the corporate world usually reserved for college graduates.

However, this section has nothing to do with any of them. Instead, we use it to sell ads and Senior Memories, so that we may raise money to pay for the production of the yearbook (so that wonderful patrons like you will have something to remember these years by. [sigh]. So, here they are.

Colophon

Printed by Jostens in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, the 1994-1995 Surveyor circulated 600 copies.

Megan Graeber and Jen Saks designed the rough draft for the cover at yearbook camp in Lynchburg. It was later finalized through opinions of the staff and suggestions by John Bailey, our Jostens representative, whom we would like to thank for his help. It is printed on white material, using Tru-Life (4 Color), Blue Foil #385, Metallic Silver #877, and is done in Litho and (Matte) Lamination. The names are stamped in Silver #81. The end sheets are done using Smoke Gray #297 material with black type.

The base body copy is 14 point Palatino, but most sections tended to vary in their choices of style.

During the first week, the staff threw out random ideas for use as the theme, none of which lived long. It took a surprisingly short amount of time to decide upon which theme to use, and what the cover should look like (considering how long it took last year). Thanks to the artists at Jostens for their work on the cover.

The staff would like to thank Ms. Laura Cross, the yearbook sponsor, for all her patience in the making of this book. Sorry for the inconvenience. I'm sure none of us will forget that last day.

Thanks to the entire staff for all your hard work. You guys did an incredible job, and most of you did it with no prior experience at all. All we have to do now is meet a deadline . . .

Commonly heard quotes . . .

"Where did all the grease pencils go?"
"I can't find my pictures!"
"I can't get the thingy to appear over the stuff."
"Does anyone know how this thing works?"
"The whole thing just kinda disappeared."
"Was that supposed to be funny?"
"Deadline next friday, guys!"
"Are you doing anything?"
"What does that have to do with anything?"
"How do you rewind this?"
"Which way do the knobs turn?"
"I can't get the cropper to work! It's stuck again."
"What am I supposed to do with this?"

Some people get by
With a little understanding.
Some people get by
With a whole lot more.
I don't know
Why you have to be so
Undemanding.
One thing I know
I want more
I want more.
